

Guide to Action

All elements of the plan for restructure and redevelopment of downtown Basalt by the DARC shall be deemed doable. All property owners, the town of Basalt, and private developers will be considered, at the outset, as approving participants. Potential constraints coming from concerns of any of the above will be addressed, case by case, as they arise.

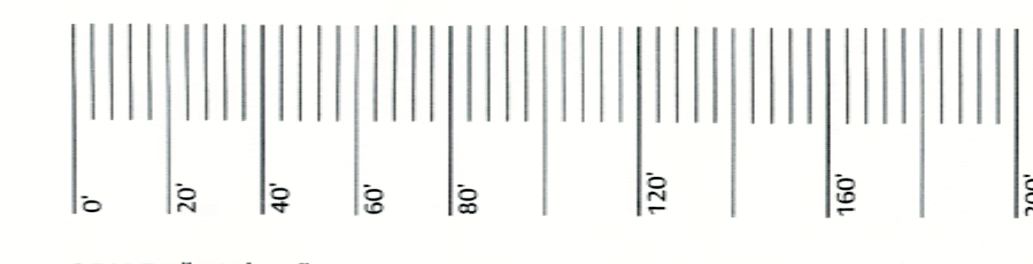

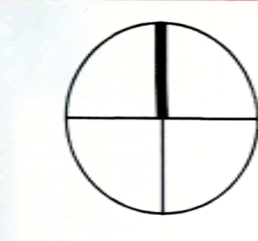

This implies a collaborative process and optimistic results.

What vehicle (entity) can we have or create to bring these interests together early and keep them in collaboration through the development process? See Michael Kinsley comments 11/19/14 from Paul Anderson.

CSCSRS

- Height limitation
- Variable facade with a light architectural "motif" design and materials
